"Aunt Sweet" (Annie Margaret Hill) was my favorite aunt. She was the youngest of all the Hill sisters and she was always polite, kind and truly "sweet."She loved to play the piano at church since she was a teenager. Though she could not read music, she was talented to play simply after hearing something once. That is truly God given.Her one and only daughter, Judith Delores Gallman, was so close to her that they were as much best friends as they were mother and daughter. They were devoted to each other.May God be pleased with the lives the lived, the dedication they had, and the love they had for each other and the hearts they touched.

This one right here is a hard pill to swallow. Ms. Sweet where do I begin. There are soooo many great memories that we as a family have shared with you, both church and personal. I will always remember your beautiful smile and that big heart you always had for people. From early Goldsboro Chapel Church days to our family dinners, birthdays, etc, you were always apart of and for that I would like to say thank you being in our lives. We love you Ms. Sweet, go take that solo seat in the Heavenly Choir now. RIP.....
