how do you share a memory when she has helped you through out your life with memories. my heart is totally broken. she was part of my heart that shared her love of life. she is the person i see when i come home to the place i was born. she is a mother to a child she did not bare. she is the smile that i see when i see her, she is the peacefulness that i receive whenever i am with her, she has a quiet way and a loving way of making you want to hug her, my heart is truly broken. my love for her, no one will understand . when i think of her not being here it brings tears to my eyes.just the thought of my selfish love for her.i love her with everything inside of me,my heart is truly broken. never before has anyone touched my heart like she has. as i write this my tears will not stop. just the thought of her not being with me truly breaks my heart. i loved her with all the love that i have .i cry for you but i will live for you. i will keep the memories of your love for me always.you are my true meaning of love.you will never die in my heart.Aunty you are my true loveJohnnie Mae(rat) your loving niece

William Winky and Ray. My condolences to the family. I known your mom basically all my life. She was a loving caring neighbor and friend of the family. Never depend on anyone. Whatever she needed or wanted to go she will walk to get it done. She was a walking sole. She will be missed dearly.
